Not One Printer in Penitentiary

Governor Mann Finds, However,
That Every Other Trade
Is Represented.

Of all the ancient and honorable trades and professions whose colonies are represented in the State Penitentiary, that of the printer is missing. An inquiry set in motion by Governor Mann reveals this fact. There are preachers and doctors and lawyers and cashiers and blacksmiths and bricklayers and factory girls and teachers and clothiers and cooks, but not a printer.

A publisher of a country newspaper in Virginia made the rather unusual request for information regarding any printers who might be incarcerated. He needed one in his town, where labor of this sort is perhaps difficult to procure. So with a desire perhaps to reform some one, he asked for data. If he found a worthy case where the term had half expired, it was his intention to bring the matter to the attention of the directors with a view to securing a parole by a promise of employment.

The Governor asked about it. Superintendent James B. Wood expressed his regrets at not being in position to accommodate the inquirer, but among all the 1,200 boarders at his institution, there was not one who would own up to being a graduate in the art of printing.

FIND BAD ERRORS IN TRAFFIC LAW CITY COLLECTOR'S SALARY IS FIXED

misuse of words, the traffic ordinance recently passed by the City Council and signed by Mayor Richardson will have to go through all the routine of passage again before it may become a law. The ordinance was discussed in the proofs, and immediately came to the notice of members of the Council and Mayor Werner, who had prepared to have 5,000 copies printed and distributed among all the livable stables and other stables in the city for the information of drivers. Copies were also to have been distributed to all the garages, so that, as far as the Police Department is concerned, no man in charge of any manner of vehicle could plead ignorance of the law.

If arrested for its violation.

Plans had also been made to teach the regulations to all members of the police force. The regulations were on a large blackboard, on which drawings could be plainly made, is now in course of construction, and this was to have been placed in the First Police Station for the instruction of the recruits.

But not all this work will have to be delayed until the revised ordinance comes up and is amended. The defects are purely typographical, and the second passage of the ordinance will be a matter of only a short time.

WHITTET ACTING MAYOR

The repeated failures to secure a quorum to consider the ordinance have to any extent on the part of some members to defer fixing the salaries in the office until after the primary in September. Even as it is, the paper will be sent to the committee on the committee, and may not be acted on finally until it has become ascertained which of the present candidates will be the new City Collector. Under the scale of salaries now in effect, the committee will cost to conduct $3,300 per year, as against an estimated cost for this year of $13,000, had it continued on a commission basis.

Judge R. Carter Scott, in the Henrico county Circuit Court, yesterday permitted W. H. Shubridge to appear before the grand jury in connection with the former charge against Frank B.
